RELIVE THE OLD WEST

Dress up and take pictures, behind the bar, on our piano, or with a cowboy or saloon girl! FOR FREE!

Mosey down the spiral stair case into the sub- terranean depths of Big Nose Kate's Saloon

and discover Tombstone's hidden treasure. Once the location of the original bar (the original bar is now located upstairs), now it is opened as the home for Big Nose Kate's custom clothes and retail items; and fun, trendy ladies fashions.

Also, while down in The Shaft don't forget to take a peek at the 'Swamper's Room' and the open mineshaft, which the Swamper painstakingly dug to gain access to nearby mines.

WHO THE HECK WAS BIG NOSE KATE?

Big Nose Kate is believed to have been the first prostitute in Tombstone, Arizona Territory. However, her biggest claim to fame was the fact that she was also Doc Holliday's girlfriend.

In 1881, Tombstone, population of around 5000 inhabitants, supported 110 saloons and fourteen 24 hour gambling halls. It is no wonder that "the red light women" or The Shady Ladies, practicing the world's oldest profession, were among the first to arrive, and the most welcomed, in the mining camp.

Some of the women were part-time entertainers, hoping to strike it rich; some enjoyed their work, while others did it just for the money. For most, it was the only avenue to survival. The more acceptable trades for women, such as seamstress, cook or laundress, paid only the lowest of wages. Without a man to take care of her, a woman's choice was often that of scandal or suicide. Though considered by most to be sinful, these women chose survival and were proud, rugged, and independent.

BIG NOSE KATE’S SALOON

Big Nose Kate's Saloon, in Tombstone, AZ, was once the Grand Hotel, the original building built in 1881. On October 25, 1881, the night before the Gunfight at the OK Corral, the Clantons and the McLaury's were guests here.

THE LEGEND OF THE SWAMPER

Many years ago in the 1880's, Big Nose Kate's Saloon was once "The Grand Hotel". This great hotel hosted such infamous personalities as Wyatt and Virgil Earp, Doc Holliday, as well as the Clanton's and the McLaury's.

In this hotel was the janitor and odd job man, known simply as "The Swamper". He was a trusted and honest helper who was given his accommodations as part of his hard earned pay.

"The Swamper" had his own special bedroom which was located in the dark basement of The Grand Hotel. This was his own special and private haven where he could enjoy peace and solitude away from the hustle and bustle of the hotel's many guests. Within his private domain where no guest was invited, he also kept secret his passion for silver.

The basement was deep enough below the surface of the ground to afford entrance into one of the catacombing mine shafts which ran underground beneath the hotel as well as most of Tombstone. "The Swamper" spent many painstaking hours over a period of years tunneling an entrance into the shaft. When the digging was completed, he could gain access to a thick vein of silver where he extracted ounce by ounce of the glorious silver nuggets. This mine entrance is still a prominent feature of the bar's basement.

It is still unknown if "The Swamper" spent his silver or if he hoarded it in an unknown niche somewhere on the premises of The Grand Hotel. However, several workers of the now "Big Nose Kate's Saloon" will swear that they have seen a ghost wandering the halls and stairs. Photographers have caught the ghostly image of an unknown being on a photo as well as on the postcard of the saloon's interior. It has been reasoned that the ghost is indeed "The Swamper" and that his afterlife is being spent protecting the silver that may still perhaps be buried somewhere in this legendary building.
